

About MAE 3.0 License Keys

Thank you for purchasing MAE 3.0!

To run MAE, your system administrator needs to obtain and install a FLEXlm floating license key for the number of MAE licenses that you have purchased.

The license key is installed on a license server for maximum flexibility in sharing MAE 3.0 floating licenses. (If there is only one MAE license at a site, the license server may be the same workstation where MAE runs.) The license server should be a machine that is reliable and readily available on the network. The system administrator should decide which license server to use before requesting license keys, since the keys are tied to the server and only work with that specific server. For details on choosing a license server, refer to the Macintosh Application Environment Administrator's Manual, located in the /docs subdirectory of the Apple directory where MAE is installed (default /opt/apple), or in the /DOCS top-level directory on your MAE CD-ROM or downloaded software.
